

HOW TO SWITCH TO OXFORD SMOOTHLY

WITH EVERYONE ON BOARD

This 8-step plan shows how to lead parents, teachers, and students through the change, without confusion or complaints.

In this Guide:

- 01 Talk to Parents Early
- 02 Show the Plan Clearly
- 03 Talk about New Fees
- 04 Share Good News From Others
- 05 Keep Talking Clearly
- 06 Make It Fun to Join Early
- 07 Make It Fun To Join Early
- 08 Keep Listening

1

Talk to Parents Early

- Ask parents what they want for their children at school.
- Show stories of kids from Ghana doing well with Oxford or Cambridge schoolwork.
- Talk about how this new way of learning helps children ask questions and think better.

Parents begin to understand and feel part of the plan.

2 Show the Plan Clearly

- Explain how Oxford learning is different from GES.
- Demonstrate how the two can work together in a single school.
- Tell parents how teachers are learning to teach a new way.

Parents know we are ready and serious about good teaching

3

Talk About New Fees

- Tell parents the new fees help make learning better.
- Show what other schools pay for Oxford programs.
- Give parents choices: a full Oxford plan or a mix with GES.

Parents feel the fees are worth it.

4

Share Good News from Others

- Show videos from other schools that have done this change.
- Let some parents who joined early share why they love it.
- Show how many parents have already said "yes."

Parents trust us more because they see others doing it too.

Smart Ideas Behind the Plan

Say thank you early – makes parents want to help later.

Start small – when people join something, they usually finish it.

Follow the crowd – when others are doing it, more will follow.
